DRAMA
70mins X 16eps

Money and power. These two words coexist on one plane. Since the beginning of time, money was always followed power, and power has triggered the desire for more money. We live in a world where money dictates, and where money is power. In such a world, we need a hero who can stand against the dishonesty, corruption and unjust. <The Banker> is a drama that takes place where the economic bubble has led to the reformation of the financial authorities. It aims to criticize a generation where money and power is held in high regards through the eyes of a banker, who fights tooth and nail against the corrupted competitive society.

KANG SAM DO

Male, 65 years old,
President of Daehan Bank.

He started as an entry-level employee and became president of Daehan Bank. He has moral influence on the employees and is popular for his kindness and gentle looks. He quickly climbed up the ladder of the main branch and was appointed as an executive in his mid-40s. After serving as vice-president he is appointed president for 3 consecutive years. Though some people make fun of his position behind his back, no one dares to say anything in front of the powerful man. Although he has many competitors, he doesn't have any enemies. Even though he seems down-to-earth, he concerns himself over how others might view him.

LEE HAE GON

Male, 52 years old,
Vice-president of Daehan Bank.

He comes from a family of elites and his father and grandfather were executives of Daehan Bank. He studied in the US and started his career at an American investment bank, and quickly became an executive member at Daehan Bank. He's a smart guy who likes to show off. He's been envied by others his whole life, but doesn't care what others think about him. His goal is to make Daehan a leading bank of Korea and a global investment bank. He is certain that he is the only person who can accomplish this. He lives by himself while his wife, a former pianist, is with their children who are studying abroad. There are rumors that say he's divorced, but he is actually a very family-oriented man and has a good relationship with his wife.
